Just 2% of BC that is private forest land generates 10% of BC's annual timber harvest.

Over 90% of the dollar value of each private land log sold goes to employment, services and taxes.

The high productivity and significant economic contribution from BC's private managed forest lands is the result of:

- Secure land tenure and continuity of management.
- Supportive regulations and taxation policies.
- Prompt replanting of areas with valuable tree species after harvesting.
- The owners' interest and investments to grow valuable timber crops.

Working together to promote responsible stewardship of private forest land in British Columbia.
